A Slogan That Means Something

"Put It In The Times" is not an empty command. It is good advice.

It's good advice because the pulling power of classified advertising in the columns of The Times has been proved time and again.

Ask those who have tried it. They know.

Moderate cost, together with a practical certainty of results, makes The Times Want Ads a favorite medium of communication between buyer and seller, between employer and employee, between "Wantee" and "Wantor."

Largest circulation means greatest results.

There is one sure method of profitable classified advertising:

"Put It In The Times." Phone Main : 260.
